

Hudson Valley Impressions

Raymond J. Steiner is an art critic/reviewer for ART TIMES, a literary journal he helped found in 1984 and for which he serves as Editor. He writes about this collection of his works, After teaching English for 14 years, I left in 1984 and co-founded ART TIMES with Cornelia Seckel, my wife and partner. Although I always kept my hand in by constantly having a sketchbook nearby, it was not until after a 40-year hiatus that I once again picked up a paintbrush in 1998. I have since been painting landscapes - many from motifs that lingered in my mind from my growing and exploring years in the Catskills and Hudson Valley. If I had any advice for other late bloomers, it would be to simply follow their hearts. If it was meant to be, hell or high water wont stop it from happening.
